

The Dark Mist of Autumn: Autumns Mist

By Mark Barresi In the peaceful, quiet town of Malapaso, a small town in the Adirondack Mountains in upstate New York, homicide detective Marc Collins begins to investigate the deaths of two well-known college students. At first it appears to be the crime of youths involved in satanic worship that got out of hand. But as the investigation wears on, Detective Collins learns there are more sinister evils at work that will push him beyond his own boundaries as a cop and test his own faith in God. Along with Police Psychologist Dr. Shannon Medford, who will aid him in his investigation, they will have to fight to keep Kathy Westcott, the only witness to the murders, alive as they face the most supreme evil of all. Marc learns the deception of evil goes far beyond his understanding; it brings him back to the reality of his wife's murder five years before. In the end, Marc risks his own life to save a young girl who holds the key to the future of the most ancient evil itself to exist.
