

The Psychology of Time, Historically and Philosophically Considered: With Extended Experiments (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from The Psychology of Time, Historically and Philosophically Considered: With Extended Experiments The present monograph, reprinted from the American Journal of Psychology, Vol. III, No. 4 and Vol. IV, No. 1, comprises work done at Clark University in the year 1889-90. In presenting the same in its new form, I take the opportunity of expressing very gratefully my indebtedness to valuable advice and suggestions continually extended to me by President G. Stanley Hall, in whose Department of Psychology the work was undertaken, by Dr. Edmund C. Sanford, Instructor in Psychology, and by Dr. Warren P. Lombard, Assistant Professor in Physiology. Also to the many others who have submitted themselves to tedious and time-robbing experimentation, I wish here to make the poor return of my thankful appreciation.
